

Outside In

Leadership, Adventure, Community

An innovative way to develop effective leaders for any organisation

Outside In

Leadership, Adventure, Community

An innovative way to develop effective leaders for any organisation

Outside In

This Nationally accredited programme is an adventurous new way to develop new, established and potential leaders in your organisation.

Working in the outdoors has great benefits to learning as it provides immediate and real situations for delegates to apply their new learning.

This programme is unique in that it combines adventure training with Leadership Theory and offers the opportunity to put this theory into practice in a challenging environment. This makes it more easily transferred back to the workplace.

The final opportunity to apply all of the learning occurs when the delegates take part in the ShelterBox Dartmoor Challenge.

The Challenge is a 30 mile trek across Dartmoor for teams of 4 carrying a ShelterBox with all they need to survive 2 days on Dartmoor. Teams have to raise a minimum of £1,000 for the ShelterBox Charity as part of the challenge.

Research shows that Employers want their employees to gain appropriate skills and Employees want those skills to be recognised with Qualifications

This programme does both in an innovative and powerful way.

Key Benefits:

Delegates will learn to:

- Lead rather than Manage
- Manage change in a constantly changing environment
- Increase the motivation of team members
- Improve communication

“ I can safely say that the Shelterbox Dartmoor Challenge is the most difficult thing I have ever done but also one of the most rewarding. I am also 100% confident that I would never have even attempted the challenge let alone completed it without the excellent programme of training, development and support provided by the Evolution team. ”

Sarah Trethowan BSc MTOPRA MIOd Company Director TRAC Services

“ Navigation, team building and leadership skills were taught at the highest level at the stunning Wheal Kitty, St Agnes. The challenge itself brought the physical, practical and intellectual together. The inspirational Evolution team were at the heart of the preparation and indeed the challenge itself where team building and leadership skills play a key role ”

Sally Heard – School For Social Entrepreneurs